"I have always loved making things and my favorite material is metal. Since high school, I have designed and created sculptures with steel, aluminum, brass, bronze, and copper, as well as glass, fiberglass, carbon fiber, cement and other natural materials.

I am trained as a jeweler, welder, and machinist, and have worked in engineering and custom fabrication shops. Several years ago, I returned to making things of my own design."

"Abstract Chemistry"

"I am an artist, teacher and nature lover. These strands of my life weave together and provide continuous creative inspiration.

Though primarily a painter, I have found that my interest in exploring various media and working with found objects often leads me to redefine the process and applications

I work with. Paying close attention to qualities such as texture, transparency, color and line allows me to translate my experiences and perceptions of the natural world around me and present my work through realism and abstraction."
